WASHINGTON, May 12.—How to halt the orgy of spending on luxuries and other non-essentials in which Americans are indulging and divert capital to increasing production of necessities which will reduce the cost of living, is a question that will be considered by the leading bankers of the country in a conference with Secretary of the Treasury Houston and the Federal Reserve Board next week.

The principal subject to be discussed is that the Reserve Banks and bankers take concerted action to curtail the advance of credit for the production of non-essentials in an effort to stem the wave of extravagance among the people. The people will stop spending when there are no luxuries left, but capital will be forced into the production of necessities which demand the more profitable field of non-essentials.

George M. Reynolds and James B. Forgan of Chicago will take a leading part in the conference, the former being president of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank and the latter in the dual capacity of member of the Advisory Council of the Federal Reserve system, and chairman of the American Bankers Association Committee appointed for the conference.

Other members of the association committee are: A. R. Decker of Minneapolis, J. H. Schulz of Milwaukee, Other Chicago district economists coming are: E. T. Johnson of Waterloo, and Charles H. McNider of Mason City, Iowa.

Preparations being made for the conference indicate that it will be held on the credit situation in the United States. A wide range of questions will be considered, all bearing on financial reconstruction and reconstruction and reduction in taxation, and otherwise direct the process back to normal conditions from the financial and economic stress produced by the war.

LUXURY WAVE ADVANCES.

The suggestion of action to check the exuberance of spending has grown out of the realization of the extent of the expectation that the cost of living would begin to decline by this time, and the increasing evidence that the wave of recklessness had not abated, but is even advancing.

It is also expected that the production of pleasure cars, fancy wearing apparel and other luxuries assuming huge proportions. One answer frequently heard is that the increase is due to the desire to prevent the use of the automobile industry.

One of the most effective ways to bring down the cost of living, it is contended, would be to limit the production of luxuries and divert capital and labor to increasing the production of essential foods and clothing. There are numerous difficulties to be faced by the conference, however, in dealing with this question.

The impression prevails that such action as may be taken along the line must necessarily be of a general nature beyond what is proper to restrict local or Federal Reserve Banks who have no specific authority by law to define essential industries and non-essential industries.

There seems to be no purpose to define in what manner the action is to be taken. In the view of the War Industries Board during the war just what classes of industry shall be considered essential or non-essential. Such an task involving a decision as to what classes of business may be financed by funds of the Federal Reserve System, it is realized, would present innumerable obstacles and cause serious industrial difficulties.

TO USE IRON HAND.

The working out of any general plan which may be proposed by the conference will depend largely upon the discretion of the heads of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks. Officials of the banks may be instructed to use an iron hand in curtailing credit for non-essential industries and to determine individual applications generally for a business which do not appear to be warlike by local circumstances.

There will also be a discussion of the present redistricting rules, but before any changes are made there are general increases are not anticipated.

Two of the Federal Reserve Banks, those in Chicago and Minneapolis, have been under the war just what classes of industry shall be considered essential or non-essential. Such an task involving a decision as to what classes of business may be financed by funds of the Federal Reserve System, it is realized, would present innumerable obstacles and cause serious industrial difficulties.

The People and Their Daily Troubles

YOURSELF in a MIRROR

To pose is to be either contemptible or comical. Depended upon the mood and general outlook of your audience. But never, imagine, prudish power. You are "posing" when you're "not". No one in the history of motherhood has been clever enough to fool all the people all the time. A false cloak, in it ever so brilliant, does not save the wearer. As for men, they do two or three things, never or smile.

BY JANE DIXON.

Why will women persist in posing?

With a beautiful grace-like nature to lend her charm who does a girl seem every nerve?

Mother is plain and old fashioned. The stigma of the steamer has not yet left her hair, nor the wrinkles of a worn brow. Those shallow symphonists of her daughter's world judge a person by exterior only, and she cannot wear her heart of gold on her sleeve.

"I believe he is interested in me," this silly poser prattled of a certain man with a slight society background and a decidedly shady reputation. "He has taken a fancy to my family! Once he meets them it will probably be all off."

"Perhaps you have better poison for your mother," suggested a regular girl, plucking cuttings from her lips and smouldering in her eyes.

The poser started. I really believed for the moment she thought her adviser was in earnest. Then she gabbled nervousness and pain.

"What a lot of useless scry might be saved and what a heap of exasperating vanity can into the picture!"

Now the object of this pose on the part of the mysterious young chanteuse of the country estate is MATRIMONY.

But this at least she does not mind.

What is she out for the wedding band, and so anxious is she to achieve her objective that she wouldn't think of throwing a smoke, except, of course, when there is no smoke in sight.

Can you catch the comedy of the situation?

Foolish fibberwoman taxying every

inch of her strength and ingenuity to provide a via-a-vis. A pretty girl, a smart girl, a witty girl.

And all these attractions eclipsed by her persistent desire to appear what she is not!

Those of us who were arranging the frolics recognized the jolt of ced weariness, ennui, restlessness and even the downright disgust attendant upon an overdose of this assuredly preposterous pose.

So to relieve the man his hon-

The odd twist to the incident is it must have occurred simultaneously at the same time as the poser's life.

Her studied attempts to fascinate were ending in disagreeable disaster.

But there is another and a more sorrier aspect.

I happened to know the poser harbored a real heart interest in the very man who now criticized her so openly. The few times she had met him he had been a most agreeable man, and any woman would have been pleased to have him as a husband.

But the man who bore her, she had failed not because of lack of personal charm but by reason of the most blatant affection-ation.

If there is one under the shining stars a real man dislikes more than another it is feminine pre-judgments.

A right enough fellow will, and does forgive a woman almost any sin of omission or commission provided she is frank about it.

But let her attempt to close her eyes and she will sometimes feel something wear thin in places so surely will the very man she desires to impress detect her sham and discredit her for its practice.

The man who bore her, however, has domesticated himself in a fine home in the country, changed her name and is now representing herself as a lady of means absolutely alone in the world.

The money which finances this farce was obtained at the cost of a terrible mistake, every dollar of it a drop of heart's blood. And the mother who bore her, who suffered thinks she's getting away with it." I protested. "Why, her name is Gwenwyn. Her friends call her Gwen, for short."

"Yes," with a chuckle, "her New York friends. But back in Kokomo the folks still call her Katie."

"I wonder what the selfish young femme thinks about it. She's been dangling at her heels will do when he discovers Gwenwyn of the Piasah is Katie of Kokomo?"

"Somehow the thought caused a a critical jolt. I began to burn up and spill over. It will be a case of the pot calling the kettle black. The sweetest sort of retribution for the two of them.

Another evening in a crowded restaurant.

"I believe he is interested in me," this silly poser prattled of a cer-certain man with a slight society background and a decidedly shady reputation.

"Well, I do if he asks me about my family! Once he meets them it will probably be all off."

"Perhaps you have better poison for your mother," suggested a regular girl, plucking cuttings from her lips and smouldering in her eyes.

The poser started. I really believed for the moment she thought her adviser was in earnest. Then she gabbled nervousness and pain.

"What a lot of useless scry might be saved and what a heap of exasperating vanity can into the picture!"

Now the object of this pose on the part of the mysterious young chanteuse of the country estate is

MATRIMONY.

But this at least she does not mind.

What is she out for the wedding band, and so anxious is she

wouldn't think of throwing a smoke, except, of course, when there is no smoke in sight.

Can you catch the comedy of the situation?

Foolish fibberwoman taxying every

inch of her strength and ingenuity to provide a via-a-vis. A pretty girl, a smart girl, a witty girl.

And all these attractions eclipsed by her persistent desire to appear

THE LADY'S LID.

The milliners in convention made a promise not to raise the price of the summer lid of the dome. It was well that they gave the pledge, for Friend Husband had about concluded that he couldn't raise it himself.

THE BOOK WORM.

A Colorado student hanged himself because he was unable to win a single event in his high school track meet. He wasn't good for much of anything but books and so his sensitive soul thought it might as well be out of the way.

FINE RAIMENT.

It is declared that the man who assassinated the Czar has himself been executed. But the murderer did not kill because the Czar represented autocracy. He wanted Nicholas's silk shirt. That was all.
See what the silkshirt habit has done to the world.

THE GOOD WORK.

The Salvation Army is said to be conducting its simple but worthy work in no less than sixty-six countries of the world and in more than forty languages. Its watchword is: "A man may be down, but he's never out"; and it helps him to prove
it. The army will determine the succession.

A GOOD MOVE.

It appeared during a divorce proceeding in Cleveland that the husband served fourteen times in twenty months. He must have been a hustler and good provider if he could find that many tools for his family in so short a time. Some folks can't find a place to move once.

HAS NO FRIENDS.

Both national parties might easily adopt a plank in opposition to the Presidential party. So far as heard from some of the candidates are in favor of it and the people certainly have nothing to say in its favor after watching its cumbersome and costly operation. It decides nothing and means nothing, yet it costs millions.

A DOCTOR BILL.

A State deputy health commissioner of Missouri presents his bill of $6000 for eight days' service in the city of St. Louis.
The town must be pretty sick, but it is fortunate that no consultation was necessary.
Seems as if the doctors learn to make out a bill before they can a prescription and both are hard to take.

THE CAMPAIGN FUND.

When a business man is placed in the position wherein he feels compelled to give $1000 to the Democratic campaign fund and another $1000 to the Republican treasury is he corrupting the country and to what extent?
Is he getting only a thousand dollars' worth of corruption or does he pull out the full $2000 or it? Here is a master that might well engage the thought of Senator Borah, our specialist on national debauchery.

KEEPING SPILLS.

Federal prohibition officers found 12,- 000 gallons of mash ready for whisky-making on a farm near Peoria. The farmer said he needed a little of the stuff for medicinal purposes for his family, but the officers thought that baby might get an overdose and so they destroyed it. Twelve thousand gallons is a lot of whisky, even when there are several chronic ailments in the family. But around Peoria they get so used to it that a wonder they didn't try it for baking purposes.

MUCH GRAFT.

Before Mexico can be successfully administered it will be necessary for those in authority to learn that public office is not to be measured wholly in terms of graft.
As matters stand every office from President down is valued by most of the seekers only for the opportunities it brings for bootlegging. It may not be a virtue to plunder the public treasury, but few Mexican politicians would seriously consider it a vice and it is the thing expected in every department of service. The state is honeycombed with graft.

THE GOOD OLD CROW.

In these harrowing and world-wrecking times it is soothing to turn to the work of the biological survey and other peaceful functionaries of our beloved government.
After long and exhaustive research the Agricultural Department reports that next to Julius Barnes the crow is about the best friend the farmer has. Everybody will cackle: "There must be a caw." There is.
The crow doesn't eat a quarter of the corn charged against him. More than 70 per cent of his daily menu consists of beetles, grasshoppers, army moths, army worms, chinch bugs and other insect devastators of the field. Most of the grain he eats would have been wasted or lost, so that—according to the government—a flock of alert and able-bodied crows is a valuable asset instead of a liability to the farmer who is for the time being entertaining them.
In the midst of a noisy and nerve-shattering Presidential campaign it is a fine thing to have a government that can take time and money to demonstrate the importance of conserving our crows. The administration may yet be able to show that they are valuable for the table and are delicious when properly served—yet should be dearly treasured as bug-chasers.

THE CAR SERVICE.
This new street-car routing in Los Angeles seems to be an ingenious device to prevent anybody from getting anywhere without walking on a corner and changing cars.

It seeks to alter the habits and courses of travel practiced by our people for twenty years.

It is irrational, illogical, confusing and productive of popular inconvenience, loss, trouble and indignation.

Like the short-lived no-parking ordinance of malodorous memory, it is (so far as The Times can find out) the progeny of a coterie of politicians seeking to put something over for the benefit of their machine, and possibly of powerful real estate interests.

If it is made permanent, many people will sell their homes and there will be a great trek from one part of town to another. You see where the real estate possibilities come in.

Gentlemen, you cannot keep the crowds off Broadway. The people will go where they want to go. They will go if they have to pack a few cars to suffocation and danger. We repeat that you cannot revolutionize the customs of the people overnight by a political edict.

What The Times wonders is how much longer the people of this city will vote to entrust the management of their own concerns to the Forty Fort Commissions set up by Hiram Johnson and perpetuated by William D. Stephens.

In the belief of The Times that the Los Angeles public desires the best possible street car service—and is willing to pay for it. This is not a cheap town.

MEXICO—WHAT MUST BE DONE.

All in confusion south of the Rio Grande, Mexico is a country with a Constitution but without a government. The right of suffrage exists only on paper. The Federal election has been decided by force of arms. Rival chiefs have united to overturn Carranza; but his successor will be determined by the right of the strongest. It may be De la Huerta, Obregon or any one of half a dozen lesser chiefs. The winner must fight for his title and fight to retain
it. The army will determine the succession.
News reports are conflicting. They agree only on the point that each of the rival chiefs is now governing the immediate territory which he occupies. The Federal States are scattered pieces of a broken necklace. For life and property there is only the security that successful banditry affords.

What is likely to happen? The continuance of a status quo that is not a status at all. Mexico is suffering from a lack of patriotism. It is not a case of parties strug-ging by diverse methods for the public good, but of rival chiefs pursuing similar methods to seize the reins of government that are now dragging in the streets of the City of Mexico. Plunder is the most invidious enemy of patriotism, and for ten years successive Mexican governments have subsisted on plunder. Tax levies have been farces.
The governments have flinched before the strong and robbed the weak. Protection of industry could be purchased as a privilege; it was never accorded as a right. Those who paid tribute were permitted to profit by their heirs' content; but who he demanded justice was banished or slain and his property was expropriated; and it was always open season for robbing and murdering Americans; for our government has been the one foreign power that was able and unwilling to protect the lives and property of its citizens.

Such have been the conditions in Mexico for the last ten years. Such they will likely continue to be as long as the right of the strong to plunder the weak is unchallenged. Civilization cannot live on plunder, although the experiment is being tried in other countries than Mexico.

The Times concedes the good intentions of the Obregonists. But it cannot escape the conviction that the forces of law and order in Mexico are too weak to cope unaided with organized banditry. The Times does not desire to be pessimistic. But how can one who is mentally honest reach an optimistic conclusion from looking at the facts in Mexico? It is like watching a car rushing down a steep declivity and hoping that the brakes will work of their own accord. We are not departing from the principle that hope is a better counselor than fear; but the only reasonable hope of avoiding a catastrophe resides outside intervention.

Obregon must depend upon the army to place him in power. But the army is likely to accede to him the right to rule only so long as he accedes to it the right to plunder. If he attempts to discipline the troops he will be courting the fate of Madero.

"The moving finger writes," and the League that might have been has faded with those whose sacrifice made it possible.
The spirit of abnegation that moved the peoples of the world in the months immediately following the armistice has suffered a dilution with personal and national ambitions. It is no longer of sufficient strength to impel the acceptance by the nations of the world of the international alliance established by the covenant of the League of Nations.

No good can be accomplished by longer concealing the facts. Humanity rose to a height in the early months of 1918 that made the establishment of such a possibility.
But political ambitions intervened.
Self-seeking demagogues deliberately aroused old animosities and appealed to base passions in the hope of personal aggrandizement; and the nations are slowly slipping back into the morses of narrow selfishness and material greed from which their sacrifices had lifted them.

Our allies have lost faith in the promises of the present American government; but they still retain their confidence in the American people. They are trying to hold fast, trusting that the coming election will lead to the formation of a government more in consonance with the will of the people. They saw the manifestations of the spirit that actuated our Liberty Army and they do not believe the American people manhood. They are looking to the Republican party as the fater of so glorious a young manhood. They are looking to the Republican party to redeem the broken promises of a Democratic administration.

Our place at the council table of the League is still represented by a vacant chair. Our allies refuse to believe that we will persist in a policy of armed isolation.
A British statesman has been quoted as saying that the Americans are a great people, once they get their dander up. Our allies still believe that we will "set our dander up" to a point that we will cast out those who have been responsible for the Wisdom of Woodrow Wilson" is the small volume made up of blank leaves.

TAFT ON SOUTHERN POLITICS.

Says There Is Some Chance for Republicans in Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee.

For several Presidential elections past the Republican optimists have had it in mind that the administration was it had done for the last seven years, including the going into the BEAVERS DROP OPENING GAME.

Stage Ninth-Inning Rally but Lack the Punch.

McAuley Makes a Hit with the Baseball Fans.

Visitors Look Good in Field but Weak at Bat.

BY ED O'MALLEY.

Thank you, Mac, over so much—Los Angeles 4, Portland 1, and a new of possibilities. Well—McCormick has swooped down upon us and showed his wares, and to tell you the truth, fair bugs, they surely glimmer like Christmas jewelry. Appreciating the webfooted defensively, he has noted all rightness when it comes to leaning up the bludgeron they are forsaken many hanks shy. And now we are pleased with the thought of how these birds happened to win the game at stage gates. But just leave Mac alone in his misery and get down to yesterday's traces.

The game was written to order. It had accumulative interest with a beginning, a middle, a good deal of action and conclusion. The kick came at the right time just as every one present was yawning himself into a foregone conclusion of Angels' success. The most fitting that the kick should come in the ninth inning. The Angels had scored three runs by legitimate baseball efficiency and in the first half of the final

It seems that always when you want to hurry most, your bobbin runs out and you have to stop and wind it.

With a WESTERN ELECTRIC TWO SPOOL Portable Sewing Machine you have no bobbins to wind. You just insert a spool of thread in place of a bobbin and sew direct from two spools instead of from one spool and bobbin.

Portable machines—the modern convenience—are no larger than a traveling bag. And it's electric. You have no pedaling to do. Just a pressure on the foot control regulates the speed—starts the machine and stops it.

You'll like the work done on a portable electric machine—the daintiest or heaviest. It's a full-sized machine, but without the old-fashioned cabinet. Easily carried anywhere. Turn in your old machine on liberal allowance.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, May 12.—Unfavorable industrial conditions superseded the credit situation as a factor of primary importance in today's listless and lower stock market, provoking additional liquidation for both buyers and sellers.

Reports from leading centers of the automobile industry conveyed broad intimations of a let-down of activity, due in part to the failure of the steel mills to provide finished materials in quantities to agree to a reduction of demand.

The money situation also figured in the trade, banks, the Middle West, being closely scrutinized by loans to automobile manufacturers, according to word received by local financial interests.

Conditions in the steel and iron trade offered little ground for encouragement, as indicated in the weekly reviews of the Iron Age and other authorities. The railroad strike had curtailed factory and foundry operations.

On call and Panama 3a dropped two points.

The stock market traversed the round road familiar by recent record, with occasional shipping contributing to the constructive side, while motors, steel equipments, leathers and textiles effected the market's over-all movement.

Trading in bonds was again devoid of special features, said from time to time by foreign issues.

The money situation was the chief factor in the irregular. Total sales (par value) aggregated $9,275,000.

Old Stocks is lost 4-4 per cent on call and Panama 3a dropped two points.

Although a downward tendency developed for a few leading lines of fruits and vegetables on the market, the offerings were held and practically unchanged.

It is believed that the market arrivals were adequate, though the market was good.

An outstanding feature of the market, however, was the continued increase in the price of steaks, which were held steady.

Meat products were held steady.

Trade in stocks was good, with the market increasing the local product in point of quality.

During the day, the market made declines ranging from 40 to 60 cents per share, as compared with 15 to 25 cents per share for the former.

This condition has practically eliminated the market's position as a leader in the market, greatly increasing the local product.

SALARIES UP TO SCHOOL BOARD.

Supervisors will be Guided by City Chief's Wishes.

Tax Rate Must be Raised to Meet Teachers' Increase.

Budget is Larger than Last Year, Says McCormick.

The entire salary question of the school-teachers of this city and of the county teachers rests with the Los Angeles Board of Education, and the County Supervisors will unquestionably be guided wholly by the requests of the city school board, according to Mark Keppel, County Superintendent of Schools.

The salary question of the city and of the county teachers is identical, Mr. Keppel said, and the two bodies are working together, harmoniously, to secure an increase of salary.

Everyone familiar with the money situation declares that the supervisors must increase the tax levy to the maximum allowed by state statute. At present the tax for common school purposes is 24 cents per $100. This should be increased to 50 cents, it is declared. For high school purposes the tax is 2 cents per $100, and this should be increased to 35 cents.

The Supervisors are convergent with the conditions in the schools, and it is safe to assume that they will probably increase the tax levy to whatever extent the Los Angeles Board of Education seems necessary, says Mr. Keppel.

Mr. McCormick, yesterday stated that the budget for the next school year is now being prepared. He said the expenses for the ensuing year will be $1,000,000, or $700,000 greater than last year, without including the teacher salary increase. He said the budget will be presented to the school board tomorrow, and that the matter will be taken up with the supervisors and the increase in salaries decided.

OSBORNE SEES RAY OF HOPE.

Car "Kicks" are Suggestive, Engineer Declares.

Changes in Where-Am-I-at System are Promised.

One Protest Already Bears Fruit, is Announcement.

In the dingy darkness of our where-am-I-at car rerouting, Chief Engineer Osborne of the Board of Public Utilities describes a gleam of hope.

In a statement given out yesterday, Mr. Osborne says: "Various changes made in operating conditions have won over many enthusiastic supporters, and those who have registered complaints either verbally or otherwise have usually accompanied the complaints with constructive suggestions. These complaints are being systematically deplored, with the idea of determining the merit of each, and the possible remedy to overcome the objections raised."

Mr. Osborne also states that "great satisfaction is heard as a result of the practical elimination of the turnback cars," though why some are still in use is not explained.

In his statement, Mr. Osborne says: "The rerouting of the system was done along scientific lines, with the result that the cars will operate at more frequent intervals and more regular service. The check at Seventh and Broadway between the hours of 5:30 and 6:15 p.m. showed that the cars were 10 minutes earlier than last year, not more than four cars in line on either Seventh or Broadway. The distance between Spring and Broadway is only half of that between Sixth and Seventh streets, and this gives the appearance of overcrowding Seventh street, when this is not the case."

The temporary routing of the Western avenue line via Fifth and Spring upsets the regular headway of several lines by reason of the use of the curve at Seventh and Spring and Fifth and Spring. The condition will be relieved when the Western avenue line is changed to its finally adopted route. A break in the trolley line at Seventh and Maple will be closed by the addition of a Heliotrope line from 6 to 6:15 p.m.

"It is my observation that the public has shown a commendable disposition to adapt itself to the changed routing, which is designed to effect economies, to prevent a rise of fare of from 7 to 10 cents. All communities have been requested to vote on May 20th, but it is the hope of the engineers that the rerouting will be permitted to stand with only such changes as are absolutely necessary to hold the street cars on local lines in the city to the time-honored 5 cents."

Owing to the dissatisfaction which resulted from the creation of the Home and Grain areas along the Los Angeles Railway announced last night that it will put into effect at an early date a plan which will require the payment of 10 cents for the loop. All passengers wanting to go out on Monica, but getting on at some such point as Fourteenth and Grand avenue, are required to pay a fare going north and another fare going south, or vice versa.

JACKSON PRESIDING.

Superior Court Judge Enters on New Official Duties.

As forecast in The Times last Sunday, Judge Jackson yesterday took up the duties of presiding judge of the Superior Court. He was chosen by his fellow judges after Judge Works, who had been temporarily in the position, expressed a wish to continue. The trial of the first case, Judge Jackson was next in rotation. The method of filling the position by rotation had been deserted, but with a return to the rotation method, the new presiding Judge Jackson are: Judges Rives, Shenk, Taft, Works, Monroe, Willis, Hewitt, Steele, McCormick, Wood, Myrick, Avery, Valentine, Crall and Stephens.

Judge Jackson will hold the office of presiding judge until next January 1. Thereafter each incumbent will hold for a calendar year.

Department 14, in which Judge Jackson presided until January 1, Judge Stephens will sit in Judge Shephard's court, Department 6.

ARGUING FOR DEPOT.

Osborne Wins He's Trying to Keep Army Trade Here.

In response to a telegram from the Chamber of Commerce, asking that every effort be used to secure revocation of an order to close the local army quartermaster depot on June 20, Congressman Osborne wired yesterday from Washington:

"Am bringing to the attention of Q.M.C. General Remond, as far as possible the excellent argument of your telegram of May 10 for retention of Los Angeles depot."

This argument pointed out that, while the Quartermaster General was asked to return his department to a peacetime basis, the establishment and retention of numerous army posts in Southern California have changed conditions materially since 1916. It also argued that the Mexican situation calls for keeping the Los Angeles depot open.

GOES TO GAS CONFERENCE.

In response to a call by the president of the American Gas Association, a gas company in the United States, F. S. Wade, superintendent of operations of the Southern Counties Gas Company of California, will leave today for the East to attend a special session of that organization. Matters affecting the high prices being paid by gas companies throughout the country for the production and operation of the financial situation and the matter of rates will form the chief subjects of discussion. The Southern Counties Gas Company of California distributes natural gas in fifty-four Southern California towns and cities.

ON TIME

Even prehistoric man felt the value of Time. He knotted a grass rope—set it afire—the slowly creeping spark marked Time's swift flight.

Our stock of fine watches is unusually complete now, in such well-known makes as Vacheron, Agassiz, Longines—and other European makes—as well as the finest of American Watches in Hamilton, Elgin and Waltham.

These are cases in thin models in gold and designed to appeal to the man who takes pride in the possession of the World's finest. Priced to appeal to the business man of today.

What is the saving power of the photoplay? Just how acute is the average imagination? What is the stimulus given ideas from motion pictures? Are there many more men in the world who travel by sea than by land? Does the admiral's course cause the protection of troops? And finally that everything we see today is due to the safeguarding of our carrying American soldiers.

Admiral Sims' claim that he was sent to the Far East to protect the Chinese coast is untrue," said the Secretary of State. "Such a telegram was never sent to Admiral Sims, he never received it, and he never sent it. His dispatch made him jump overboard, and the signature on it is forged."

Further information came from the Secretary of the Navy, who said that the admiral had been promoted to rear admiral and given command of the Asiatic Fleet. He was instructed to proceed to the Far East to protect the Chinese coast.
